

[psalm]

a simple ravening to place, the good and final till of mineral fields, grieve and unhand, friend, night and damp wrapped in rudding leaves like plaster like blooded limbs, bent to bear the bearing weight of winter, bound lasting to last machine, of the sun