

[psalm]

forsobbed and justly sworn, it was me who it was who killed these killed kids, who sidled and lapsed and bent from sight, the world was always as fence or it was falter, some brownbled shadow left ignored to blacken from scene, alone, in my long shame to